COVID-19 and Social Insurance and Benefit Programs

Updated April 17, 2020—With the ongoing impact of COVID-19 still not fully understood by the community at large, individuals with disabilities who regularly access a series of public benefits are left with a variety of questions about the impact of the various federal and state legislative and administrative actions on these benefits. Key language in the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act serves as a guidepost from which the impact on benefits can be better understood.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any refund (or advance payment with respect to a refundable credit) made to any individual under this title shall not be taken into account as income, and shall not be taken into account as resources for a period of 12 months from receipt, for purposes of determining the eligibility of such individual (or any other individual) for benefits or assistance (or the amount or extent of benefits or assistance) under any Federal program or under any State or local program financed in whole or in part with Federal funds. 26 U.S. Code § 6409

Supplemental Security Income (SSI)

Individuals who are receiving SSI need to be aware of several key elements related to the stimulus payment:

- Stimulus payments are NOT taxable.
- Stimulus payments received by the individual that are initiated through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (CARES Act) will not counts as income in the calculation of the individual’s SSI amount for that month (26 U.S. Code § 6409).
- Stimulus payments will not be counted as “resources” for a 12-month period following the receipt of the funds (26 U.S. Code § 6409).

I am not typically required to file a tax return. Can I still receive my payment?

Yes! Arrangements have been made for the stimulus payment to be paid directly to SSI recipients. We know that those SSI recipients who have bank direct-deposit information on file with SSA will receive their stimulus payment as a direct deposit. Stimulus payments should be received as early as May.

We have no information concerning those who receive benefits via EBT cards.

Those SSI recipients who do have dependents, or do not receive payments via direct deposit or paper check, or do not regularly file taxes should use the IRS non-filer link below to let the IRS know of your dependents so that the proper stimulus payment can be processed.

Who is your dependent?

Not all dependents, as that term is generally used, will receive a $500 stimulus “bump.” In order for the parent(s) of the “dependent” to receive a check, the government has used a mix of the “qualifying child” and “Child Tax Credit” rules. As a result, a dependent for stimulus payment purposes must be all the following:

- Someone who you have claimed on your tax return or $0 non-filer form
- Under the age of 17 and attending school
- Related to you by blood, marriage or adoption
- Someone who cannot provide more than half of their own financial support during the tax year
- A U.S. citizen, U.S. national, or U.S. resident alien
- Has lived with you for more than half of the year

In short, those people who are age 17–24 are NOT eligible for a dependent $500 “bump.” They may be eligible for their own stimulus payment if they are not claimed as a dependent for tax purposes by anyone and have worked and filed taxes in 2018 or 2019, or they use the non-filer IRS link.

Stimulus payment intercepts

We have been made aware that the banks are intercepting stimulus payments for those individuals who have defaulted on or have late private student loans, or who have overdue credit card payments or overdrawn bank accounts. Most recently, we have been informed that nursing homes have intercepted stimulus payments for Medicaid residents, claiming that these payments should be kept as cost of care.

If either event occurs, please contact your State Consumer Affairs Office, Elder Affairs Office, or your local legal services agencies for assistance. Some states will prevent banks from intercepting stimulus payments and Elder Affairs may intercede with nursing home intercepts. The CARES Act does not support any of these intercepts.

Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI), Disabled Widow(er) Benefits (DWB), Childhood Disability Benefits (CDB)

The stimulus payment will have no impact on any of these Title II benefits: SSDI, DWB, CDB, and SSA Retirement. These benefits are classified as insurance benefits and are NOT impacted by unearned income. In addition, the stimulus payments will NOT be taxable.

Please note that Title II benefits are SSA benefits. SSI benefits are federal welfare benefits. At any time when the CARES Act refers to “Social Security Benefits, “SSI” is not included unless specifically stated by the statute.

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)

There is no impact on SNAP benefits due to the receipt of a stimulus payment in accordance with 26 U.S. Code § 6409.
Housing and Urban Development (HUD)

There is no impact on HUD rent subsidies due to the receipt of the stimulus funds. Further, HUD housing does not consider an individual’s resources. Only the income produced by the resource, bank interest, is considered by HUD. Please check your state rules concerning state public housing in which an individual may be living.

HUD has also extended a “tailored set of mortgage payment relief options for single family homeowners with FHA-insured mortgages.” “Effective immediately for borrowers with a financial hardship that makes them unable to pay their mortgage due to the COVID-19 National Emergency, mortgage servicers must extend deferred or reduced mortgage payment options—called forbearance—for up to six months, and must provide an additional six months of forbearance if requested by the borrower”¹.

Medicaid

In all states that have accepted the Federal Medical Assistance Percentage (FMAP) 6.2% increase from the federal government (only NYS is in question but has issued a state directive not to terminate Medicaid benefits during the crisis), Medicaid recipients who received benefits before the COVID-19 crisis, or become eligible during the crisis cannot be terminated from Medicaid. On a case by case basis, states may change the category or eligibility, e.g., from regular Medicaid to 1619(b) or Medicaid Buy-In for Working People with Disabilities (MBI-WPD), but terminations of coverage will not be allowed.

Medicare

The stimulus payment will have no impact on Medicare premiums or eligibility. Medicare Savings Plans (MSPs), those programs that see Medicaid paying all or part of Medicare premiums for Parts B and D, and in some cases co-pays and deductibles, will also not be impacted by the stimulus payments in accordance with above language (26 U.S. Code § 6409).

Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)

In accordance with the language in 26 U.S. Code § 6409, the stimulus payment will have no impact on TANF eligibility or resource levels for a 12 month period from receipt of the funds.

Veterans Affairs (VA) Pension

In accordance with the language in 26 U.S. Code § 6409, the stimulus payment will have no impact on VA Pension eligibility or resource levels for a 12-month period from receipt of the funds.

Unemployment Insurance (UI)

Each state is responsible for establishing its own UI benefits eligibility. In general, you qualify when you:

- Are unemployed through no fault of your own. In most states, this means you have separated from your last job due to a lack of available work.
- Meet work and wage requirements. You must meet your state’s requirements for wages earned or time worked during an established period referred to as a “base period.” In most states, this is usually the first four out of the last five completed calendar quarters before the time that your claim is filed.
- Are a self-employed individual or ‘gig’ worker, like Uber and Lyft drivers, under the CARES Act provisions, and you meet your state’s other UI criteria.
- Meet any additional state requirements. Find details of your own state’s program.

Important UI Facts

- UI has been extended beyond the “normal” 26 weeks to 39 weeks. This extension will end December 31, 2020, regardless off the number of weeks over your state’s maximum that have been received. For example, if you have received 26 state weeks and are receiving your 4th federal extension week UI payment in the last week of December 2020, this will be your last payment.
  - Most states provide 26 weeks of UI. Massachusetts residents will receive 43 weeks as the Commonwealth provides 30 weeks of UI in normal circumstances. Check your state’s UI website for information concerning the number of weeks generally paid by your state.
  - If your state pays other than 26 weeks in normal circumstances, simply add 13 weeks to the number of state weeks of payment
- The CARES Act will provide UI benefits for self-employed individuals and “gig” workers such as UBER or LYFT drivers.
- The federal government will also add $600 per week to the maximum state UI benefit paid for 4 months until July 31, 2020. Thus, if your state maximum payment is $450 per week, the weekly check will be $1,045. There appears to be no variation in payment for those not receiving the maximum in your states so we must assume, until we receive other information that the $600 per week will be added to all UI amounts paid by the state.
- For SSDI workers with disabilities that will have to meet your state “base rate”; meaning that they have to have worked long enough and earned enough to be eligible for UI. See your state’s UI website for this information. Many websites also have calculators to estimate payments.

Important UI and SSI Facts

- SSI recipients are required to apply for any other benefit they may be eligible to receive when told of potential eligibility. The SSA Program Operations Manual System (POMS) states:
  - SSA advises him/her, on a written, dated notice, of potential eligibility for other benefits; and
  - He/she does not take all appropriate steps to file for and, if eligible, obtain any such payments within 30 days of receipt of such notice.

- For those SSI recipients that meet your state’s UI “base period,” the potential of receiving $2,400 plus the state U/I benefit exists. SSI recipients could receive much more through the UI program than through the SSI program. Thus, they should be encouraged to apply ASAP for UI, as long as you have determined that they will be eligible for UI. Given that the maximum period of receipt of UI in any state is 43 weeks, SSI recipients will still be suspended when UI ends.

  Please note:
  - At the conclusion of the UI, the recipient MUST call SSA to have the SSI reinstated.
  - Any EXCESS resources held at the time reinstatement is requested will count toward the resource limit.
  - Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) accounts or other protected savings mechanisms could be considered, if eligible, to ensure SSI resource rules are met.

Important UI and Other Benefits Facts

UI is unearned income and may impact monthly SNAP awards, TANF awards, and VA Pension awards. Please ensure that before a UI application is filed, the math makes sense and all lost benefits will be accommodated by the state UI payment and the $600 weekly federal payment. When the federal payment stops on July 31, 2020, be sure to report the loss of income to the administering agency for each benefit lost or reduced to allow that agency to increase the benefit payable.

Medical Help for the Uninsured

The Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS) announced on April 5, 2020, that money from the CARES Act would be set aside to meet the COVID-19 related medical expenses of the uninsured.

How will this work? Any medical provider/hospital accepting Medicare can agree to provide services to any uninsured person and will receive the Medicare rate of payment. However, the provider/hospital must agree NOT to bill the uninsured person for any remaining expenses.
